Yolo County swears in new sheriff, other top officials

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Eleven county officials -- some newly elected, others returning to decades of service -- were sworn in to their Yolo County posts in a special ceremony Monday at the Erwin Meier Administration Center atrium in Woodland.

They were:

■ Jorge Ayala, former Yolo County school district principal elected to the post of county superintendent of schools.

■ Tony Bernhard, a veteran of the Yolo County Clerk/Recorder post, returned to office by the voters in November.

■ Dick Fisher, elected to the county assessor position after serving as a previous assistant to the assessor.

■ David Henderson, re-elected to serve as Yolo County District Attorney.

■ William Lebov, a previous municipal court judge elected to fill a superior court judge position.

■ Paul Lester, former assistant treasurer-tax collector, elected to the treasurer-tax collector's position.

■ Ed Prieto, a former California Highway Patrol administrator, who took his seat as the new Yolo County Sheriff/Coroner.

■ Tom Stallard, elected to his second term as Yolo County's District 3 county supervisor (representing a district which includes Woodland and the northwest corner of West Sacramento).

■ Cass Sylvia (former aide to local county supervisor Mike McGowan), elected to serve as Public Guardian/Conservator.

In other county news, West Sacramento's Mike McGowan (who represents most of the city on the county board of supervisors) was voted yesterday by the board to the chairman's seat for the current year. The post followed the traditional rotation of the chairman's seat through each county supervisor's district.

In addition to the new elected officials serving the county, Yolo now has two new top staff members. Replacing Roy Pederson, who retired as chief administrative officer in November, is Victor Singh, who was named to that post without a recruitment process by the supervisors in December. Singh is a former director of the county's mental health programs who served as assistant to Pederson before Pederson's retirement.

Newly hired as assistant C.A.O. is Donald Ishikawa of Woodland, a former staff analyst in the office who was hired after a search and recruitment process.

A gift of teddy bears

The Young Women's Organization of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints at 2667 Linden Road in West Sacramento had a desire to do something for the community.

Working as a team, they cut out, sewed and embroidered ten teddy bears which were delivered on Thursday, December 10, to the West Sacramento Police Department for donation to needy children.

About Town:

Cathy Lorda, advocate for children's reading

By Daryl Fisher
Features Editor

CATHY LORDA in her element at the Arthur F. Turner branch library, Merkley Avenue

"At one time or another," said Cathy with a warm smile, "I guess I've done just about every job there is to do at the library, and that includes driving the bookmobile."

"I've always enjoyed reading," explained Cathy. "When I was a very young girl, I can remember going with my grandmother and cousins to a little library that looked a lot like a log cabin and checking out books like Black Beauty. Horses were the thing back then, and I really loved that book. Plus there were always plenty of newspapers and magazines around my house, so reading has always been an important part of my life."

Cathy was raised in West Sacramento and attended Sacramento City and Sacramento State colleges. After graduation, her many duties at Turner Library continued to expand.

"I was very lucky to work with Mrs. Ione Cagle," recalled Cathy. "There really wasn't anything Mrs. Cagle couldn't do in a library, and she taught me just about everything I know."

Over the years, Cathy has worked very hard to pass along her love of reading to thousands of young West Sacramento boys and girls.

"I'm in charge of purchasing children's books at the library," explained Cathy, "and also for the upkeep of the collection. We have a very good working relationship with the teachers and administrators of the Washington Unified School District and every year I go out to all the local elementary schools and make presentations to the second and fifth graders. We also bus the children to the library, show them around, explain how to best use the facilities, and encourage everyone to get a library card. We even take tubs of books to the local preschools, because we know that the earlier a young person begins hearing and reading the written word, the better."

Cathy also finds time to talk to parent groups, read stories to groups of children (both in classrooms and at the library), and coordinate summer and holiday reading programs.

"All the special programs we are able to make available to our young readers is due in large part to the hard work of our many adult and youth volunteers," said Cathy. "We have about 50 people who donate a lot of their time and energy throughout the year, and believe me, they are very much appreciated."

Cathy really enjoys her work and the many hours she spends at the Turner Library.

"To tell you the truth," said Cathy, "there are parts of my job that I would do for free. It's very rewarding to see a preschooler with his or her mouth wide open, hanging on every word and eagerly anticipating the turning of the next page. Plus some of the children I work with are second and third generation, and I have fond memories of their parents coming to the library when they were young. And sometimes I'll be at the store or somewhere out in public and suddenly there'll be a young person standing next to me asking if I remember the time I read a certain story to him or her. It's a good feeling to know that reading is still alive and well and that I'm doing my small part to help."

'There will always be a need for good books. There's a certain comfort that comes from reading, and you can't get it from anything else. Time slows down as you read, and before you know it, you're lost in the pages, and totally involved with the characters and the story.'
-- CATHY LORDA

Cathy has found that young people like all kinds of books, but every year they usually have a couple of favorite topics which really interest them.

"This year it's the Titanic," said Cathy. "As soon as we get a book in that has anything to do with the Titanic, everyone wants to read it. The American Girls Collection is also real popular right now, as is the Dear America series. And any biography on Leonardo DiCaprio is almost impossible to keep on the shelf for very long."

Unlike a lot of people, Cathy is not too worried about television and the internet doing permanent damage to the young minds of future book readers.

"There will always be a need for good books," explained Cathy with confidence. "There's a certain comfort that comes from reading, and you can't get it from anything else. Time slows down as you read, and before you know it, you're lost in the pages, and totally involved with the characters and the story. It's a wonderful feeling, and I'm sure people will always need to experience it."

Margaret Crawford, a longtime member of West Sacramento's Friends of the Library said, "Cathy is extremely good with children and determined to give as many young people as possible an enjoyable introduction to reading. She is very hard working, cooperative, helpful, and best of all, nice. She is everything a good children's librarian should be and we're very lucky to have her at the Turner Library. The Friends of the Library made her our 'Friend of the Year' in 1993, and we all love working with her."

Laville Logan, who teaches 2nd grade at Westmore Oaks Elementary School said, "Cathy has worked with my classes for a long time and I'm always impressed with how tireless she is when it comes to making sure my students know how to properly use a library. She doesn't just point them towards the books and say have a good time. Instead, she takes the time to make sure they all know how to use the card catalogue and the computers. And when she reads to them, she picks out really good books that

River Ranch map returns to planners

A plan on how to lay out a 173-home development on the north side of Linden Road east of Jefferson Blvd. will return to the West Sacramento Planning Commission for possible approval on Thursday.

The project, which also includes a one-acre pedestrian through-block trail, a 2.2 acre park and school site and a 4.5 acre detention basin, has drawn opposition from some Linden Road-area residents concerned about impacts to Linden Road traffic and other quality of life issues.

The plan is being proposed by Stroud Properties on behalf of owner Turner Estate Company, Inc.

On Dec. 3, the planning commission held a public hearing on the subdivision and sent the original proposed layout back to the staff more more negotiation with the developer. Local residents had expressed concern about the number of new intersections the development would add to Linden Road and traffic impacts to pedestrians at nearby Our Lady of Grace private school.

"The designers of the River Ranch project have stated that they chose to add intersections on Linden Road in order to enhance the neighborhood feel of Linden Road, and to also utilize a principal of roadway design which states that drivers will slow down if they perceive that they are driving in a residential area, as opposed to increasing their speeds if they perceive they are on a 'thoroughfare,' " the staff report said. "

New design proposals were being worked out in an attempt to meet residents' complaints, said the report, but may not be ready for public review before the planning commission meeting Thursday.

The planning commission meets on Thursday, January 7 at 6 p.m. in city council chambers, 2101 Stone Blvd. Agenda items include the following:

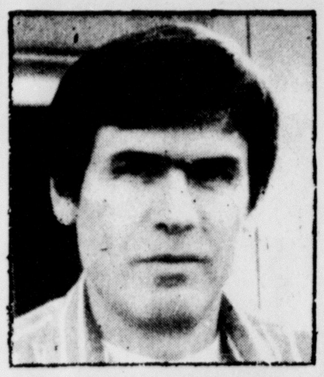
The cartoons are what make magazines worth reading

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

For better or worse, I am one of those people who is always thumbing through old magazines, and when I come across cartoon captions that make me smile, I often write them down and stick them in my 'Brain Dead' file, which has proved to be very valuable to me on those days when I'm supposed to come up with a column idea even though I don't have a meaningful thought in my head. Since this is one of those weeks, here are a few cartoon captions I've come across in the not too distant past. I hope they make you smile, too.

An irate female boss is vigorously scolding one of her male employees. She is leaning over her desk, wagging a finger at him, and the caption reads: "For the last time, Crawford, our firm is 'warm and fuzzy', not 'touchy-feely'!"

Surrounded by angry, red-faced devils with very sharp pitchforks at the ready, a rather large group of unclothed sinners are being marched off to the fires of hell. One of the condemned says to another, "They say the important thing is to stay hydrated."

A female cow is lecturing one of her fun-loving, mischievous offspring: "It was different in the old days. They said, 'Git along little dogie', and, by God, we got along!"

A middle-aged man and woman are standing next to a pot full of nothing but papers at the end of a big, beautiful rainbow. The man, who is looking down into the pot, says, "Why, these are nothing but a lot of tax-and-spend proposals."

A Judge and a lawyer are holding a rather animated side bar. The angry judge says, "And don't go whining to some higher court, either!"

Two female sheep are talking to each other. The caption reads: "Every time my poor Ed comes back from being sheared, we have to spend hours talking about how vulnerable he feels."

A news anchor, with papers in his hand, looks into the camera and says, "This just in -- both sides in the gang war described their meeting as a full and free exchange of bullets."

A doctor is going over test results with an obviously depressed middle-aged gentleman. The doctor says, "Trust me, Senator, many men have active and fulfilling sex lives after they're retired from Congress."

A very old man is resting quietly in his hospital room. A young man is seated next to him, writing a letter. The young man says, "Hey, Gramps, is deathbed one word or two?"

A dog is stretched out on his back on a psychiatrist couch, discussing his mental health problems with a doggie psychiatrist. The patient says, "I do what they tell me, I eat what they give me. How do I know they're not a cult?"

A travel agent is talking to a family of four in his office. "You can still go over the river and through the woods, but it's much cheaper to fly."

Two men in business suits are walking together on their way to work. Only one of the men is being blown about by what appears to be a very windy storm. The man who doesn't seem to be affected at all by the wind says, "Maybe you should see a meteorologist about it?"

A man and a woman are seated next to each other in a moving car. The man, who is behind the wheel, says, "We have to be missing at least 24 hours before I'll consider us lost."

A family is standing around the bed of a dying man who doesn't seem to like any of them very much. The dying man says, "Somebody get me a gun. I want to squeeze off a few last rounds."

Two dogs dressed like lawyers and carrying briefcases are talking to each other. One says, "Okay, I messed up, but the judge didn't have to rub my nose in it."

Three men in fancy suits are standing on a street corner holding up a sign which reads: Will work for immunity from the special prosecutor.

A politician and his young son are standing next to each other staring out an office window which has a wonderful view of the United States Capitol building in Washington, D.C.. The politician says, "And someday, son, all my campaign funds will be yours."

A well-dressed woman is strolling down her office hallway. Attached to one of the walls are three square boxes. They are labeled, 'Suggestions', 'Accusations', and 'Gossip'.

A man and women are resting somewhat uncomfortably in bed. The woman says, "Not tonight, dear. I have the legal definition of a headache."

A man and his obviously high-paid lawyer are standing in front of an angel at the pearly gates. The lawyer says to the angel, "Let's be reasonable. Just approve my client's admission and we'll all be spared a lot of nasty litigation."

Two female Pilgrims from the 1600s are strolling down the main street of their village. The woman with her head down has a large scarlet 'A' woven onto the chest of her simple cloth dress. The woman with her head up seems much more pleased with herself. She has an 'A+' woven onto on her chest.

An obviously happy man, grinning from ear to ear, is leisurely motoring along a coastal highway in a fancy convertible with numerous strings of empty cans tied to his rear bumper. There is also a big sign securely taped to his trunk door which reads: NEVER MARRIED

Draft registration information—

From Selective Service System

If you are a young man age 18 through 25, it's time to think about your Uncle Sam, and the best way to stay on his good side is to register with Selective Service. Although most men register when they are 18, as required by law, some fail to do so until they are older. In some cases, they wait too long. If you are now 25, you have until the day before your 26th birthday to register. Selective Service does not have the authority to accept late registrations after a man reaches age 26.

Selective Service State Director Ronald H. Markarian cautioned that, with few exceptions, a man who fails to register before turning 26 will forfeit his eligibility for certain benefits, such as federal student aid, job training, and most federal employment, in addition to facing possible prosecution as a felon. Registration is also an eligibility requirement for male immigrants seeking U.S. citizenship.

Some states also require registration for state student aid, entrance to state-supported colleges and universities, state employment, and permission to practice law. California requires Selective Service registration as a precondition for state student financial aid.

Markarian points out that men age 18 through 25 who have not yet registered can avoid the risk of prosecution and loss of benefits by registering promptly at any local post office or on the Internet Selective Service home page (http//www.sss.gov). If men need to verify their registration or obtain their Selective Service Number,* this can also be done at the home page. Failure to register is a felony punishable by a fine of up to $250,000, up to five years in prison, or both.

Men can register with Selective Service up to 30 days prior to their 18th birthday. Early registration may be necessary if verification of registration is required for applications for a student loan, college entrance, job training, or a federal job. Over 13 million men age 18 through 25 are currently registered with Selective Service. Of those, 1,399,782 are from California.

SPORTS

The Sports Insider

By Richard Novoa

The 49ers finally got the monkey off their back by beating Green Bay 30-27 with a last second touchdown pass to Terrell Owens. The monkey was more like the size of Mighty Joe Young!

The wild card shootout at 3Com Park advances the 49ers to Saturday's NFC divisional playoff game in Atlanta (9:35 a.m.). The 49ers and Atlanta split their division series. San Francisco won the first encounter 31-20, while Atlanta (14-2) won their home game 31-19, and went on to win the division title.

Last week I picked three playoff winners (Miami, Arizona, Jacksonville) and tied the 49ers game!

This week will be little harder but I like the 49ers plus 3 ½ over the Falcons. The Niners will win another shootout - 49ers 31-Falcons 28.

In the other NFC game the Vikings are 15 points favorites over the Cardinals. The Cards knocked off the Cowboys last week, but I think the Vikings have too much firepower for Jake "the snake" Plummer. The Vikings on Sunday (1:15 p.m.) will win but I like the points-Minnesota 35 - Arizona 24.

In the AFC, the defending champion Denver Broncos will host the Miami Dolphins on Saturday (1:15 p.m.). The Broncos are 11 point favorites over Jimmy Johnsons Dolphins. Take the Broncos, who are still mad over the Monday night loss to Miami a few weeks ago. Denver 31 - Miami 13.

The other AFC game pits the New York Jets (-7) and the Jacksonville Jaguars on Sunday (9:40 a.m.). This will be the best game to watch as the Jets win with a late field goal - New York 24 -Jacksonville 23.

See ya next week!

RC hoopsters take second

By Chuck Robinson

River City High School's varsity basketball team played in a tough tournament last week in the bay area. The teams were Vacaville, Lincoln, Redwood, Capuchino, Drake, Pacific Grove, San Mateo, Fulton, Servite, Burroughs, Arroyo Grande, Argonaut, Aragon, Woodlake, Marin Catholic and River City. Out of 16 teams, River City took second place.

In the first game on Monday, RC beat Aragon 65 to 64. Victor Valdivia led with 31 points, 5 three-pointers, 11 rebounds; Radai Mashriqi, 15 points; Malcom Floyd, 10 points, 6 rebounds; Javes Figueroa, 4 points; Ramphanh Keomek, 2 points; Alfredo Rodriguez, 2 points, 6 rebounds; and Zafar Niazi, 1 point.

Tuesday, RC beat Marin Catholic 64 to 56. Floyd led with 20 points, 17 rebounds, 10 blocked shots; Valdivia, 16 points, 12 rebounds; Niazi, 10 points, 7 rebounds; Mashriqi, 9 points; Keomek, 3 points; Figueroa, Rodriguez and Malfred Shaw, 2 points each.

Wednesday, RC beat Burroughs 54 to 51. RC caused a lot of grey hairs in that game. RC scored 3 points in the first quarter, 10 points in the second quarter to trail at half time 23 to 13. In the third quarter, they trailed 39 to 32. In the fourth quarter, RC scored 22 points and held Burroughs to 12 points to win 54 to 51. Valdivia led with 22 points, 6 three-pointers, 12 rebounds; Floyd, 12 points, 7 blocked shots, 12 rebounds; Mashriqi, 11 points; Keomek, 3 points; Figueroa, Niazi and Rodriguez, 2 points each.

On Thursday, RC played San Mateo for the championship but lost 75 to 46. Valdivia was sick and couldn't make the trip. Floyd led with 18 points, 6 rebounds; Niazi, 7 points; Rodriguez, 5 points, 7 rebounds; Sal Aceves, Keomek, Mashriqi and Dominique Alpers, 3 points each; Khairoddin Niazi and Malfred Shaw, 2 points each. Malcom Floyd and Zafar Niazi made the all tourney team and received trophies. RC received a beautiful second place trophy. Congratulations, Raiders, for a job well done.

The Raiders start league play on Tuesday at home with Golden Sierra. On Thursday, they travel to Lindhurst. On Tuesday, Jan. 12, they play at home against Lincoln. Game times are 5:30 and 7 p.m.

Signups approach for West Sac Little League

The West Sacramento Little League will hold registration for players ages five through 16 at the Fireman's Hall at 1966 Park Blvd. in West Sacramento on the following Saturdays in January: 9, 16 and 23, from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m.; and on the following tuesdays in January: 12 and 19, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Fees are $40 for ages five and six; $50 for ages seven through 12; and $60 for ages 13 through 16. WITHOUT EMPLOYER SUPPORT OF THE NATIONAL GUARD AND RESERVE, IT MIGHT NOT MOVE AN INCH.

As the American military gets smaller, the role of the National Guard and Reserve has never been greater—and the support of their employers never more critical.

The Guard and Reserve make up half of today's military forces. Along with being trained and ready for combat, they support peacekeeping missions, rescue operations and humanitarian relief efforts. As soldiers, sailors, airmen and Marines, they'll be in a position to serve our country. As their employer, so will you.

News-Ledger Editorial:

Still needed: a healthy new look at the port

It remains perplexing how unconcerned West Sacramento officials continue to be about pursuing the best possible land use for hundreds of acres in the city's geographical center. This land also happens to be close to some of the city's most ambitious, high-end planned residential development -- another reason why it should be scrutinized carefully.

That acreage, of course, belongs to the Port of Sacramento.

The Port is a publicly-owned entity which has been struggling for a number of years. It cannot afford an upgrade it termed crucial earlier this decade: a channel-deepening project which would allow the it to host larger ships. Despite the best efforts of a sincere staff, the port's future success remains uncertain, and to some degree, port officials already accept the notion that their business as a shipping port must be supplemented with a new business as a real estate concern in order to balance the books.

This means that the "tail is wagging the dog" a little bit; hundreds of acres in key West Sacramento land development projects will be pursued in order to support the port's 35-year old mission as a center for shipping, while the question of whether the port's mission as a center for shipping can be met is never truly answered. The port's mission ought to be examined first, with all other decisions following in support of whatever answer comes.

There has long been a need for the "stockholders" of the port (all the landowners in Sacramento County and eastern Yolo County, led by their local officials) to question everything. They need to take inventory and decide what is the best use of the port's assets, including its land. They need a business plan to examine, with all assumptions lifted and no holds barred.

By looking the question squarely in the face, they may end up reassuring themselves that the present course of the Port, uneven as it may be, is the best one. Or they may find that current plans to market industrial land (including non-port-related industrial land) in support of current shipping strategies is unlikely to succeed in the long run. They may find that all these assets are best used another way.

What is surprising is that no one (especially on the West Sacramento side of the river, which is most deeply affected by the issue) seems willing to ask the questions.

Letters to the Editor

Raley's remodel disappointing

It is with great disappointment that I viewed the (resurfaced) Raley's grocery store parking lot expecting to see trees and landscaping. Alas, there were none. The parking lot was totally repaved with no provision for trees, bushes or other plants.

Out of curiosity, I drove to the new Raley's store on Marconi Ave. in Sacramento and observed landscaping. I also drove to their new Elk Grove store and was impressed with all the trees, shrubs and other plant life.

Raley's headquarters is here in West Sacramento. Fortunately, they saved the heritage oak trees in their parking lot and replanted additional trees and grass.

I know people from Sacramento who come to our Raley's to shop -- perhaps if the parking lot were beautified, more people from Sacramento would shop here.

Over and over through incorporation, we heard people say they wanted West Sacramento beautified, less crowded, [illegible]. Landscaping the Raley's parking lot here in West Sacramento could set the pace for others to follow in helping to make our city "the premier city in the region."

Let's hope that Joyce Raley Teel and her husband read this letter and take the necessary steps to help beautify our community. Most of us have spent a lot of money at Raley's. Now it's time for Raley's to show their appreciation for our support by helping to beautify their parking lot. Thank you.

"Bad boy" shouldn't be impeached

While our U.S. House of Representatives has voted along party lines to impeach President Bill Clinton, the move now needs a two-thirds majority of the U.S. Senate, and the Republicans/GOP do not have that majority. In between such actions comes this CNN Poll showing President Clinton and First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton to be the nation's most popular man and woman in the nation! Should this not send a message to the Senate?

Yes, the president was "bad boy" for that extra-marital sex, but since it was consensual, it does not rank high enough for impeachment...and all of that talk of "perjury, lying under oath, etc." sounds like legal jargon without a base. The timing of events suggests that investigator Judge Ken Starr collaborated with Clinton-hater Lucianne Goldberg to encourage Linda Tripp to plant the tape recording device on Monica Lewinsky to record the latter's sexual activities and conversations with the president...as her "friend?"

On TV recently, the Rev. Jerry Falwell appeared with Hustler Magazine publisher Larry Flint. Rev. Falwell appealed to Mr. Flint to spare the families of those in Congress any (further) embarrassment for those additional GOP members of Congress Mr. Flint has said he would expose; i.e., don't go after the family members. While Mr. Flint seemed to agree to that, I wondered where Rev. Falwell was when Judge Starr announced he would make public all of that trash he dug up on Clinton. (I guess it's only in grand jury cases when prosecution does not need court's permission to make accusatory evidence public.)

And it still seems ironic that Congressmen Dan Burton and Henry Hyde, who led the house impeachment drive, had extramarital sex themselves. Talk about hypocrisy.

The Senate's action should be interesting, to say the least. Maybe the Constitution should be amended to define (more clearly) the terms "high crimes and misdemeanors," on which the House GOP majority based what should be their infamous impeachment of Clinton. Since Senate Majority Leader Trent Lott knows the GOP is about 12 votes short of the two-thirds of 67 votes, that's probably why he hopes to finalize this in 2 weeks from mid-January. Without the 67, they won't get even a censure, much less impeachment. Save our time and money and clarify our Constitution, Senator Lott. Thanks.

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS

The Sacramento River registered six feet nine inches, United States gauge at the Southern Pacific bridge yesterday.

John Johnson, caretaker at the West Sacramento headquarters, was a visitor in Escalon during the past week. He was accompanied by his family, and the trip was made in the family automobile.

The promised arrival of Thomas McAnulty at West Sacramento headquarters did not materialize during the last week as published in the last issue of the Independent, but it is likely he may arrive any day to make permanent headquarters in Westgate. Many residents of the district are looking for Mr. McAnulty because of the great promises that have been made following his arrival. It may mean a revival of the good times that were going on in West Sacramento a few years ago when the district was promoted under the guidance of H. W. Furlong.

The north wind of the past two days succeeded in robbing McNally and Partridge of a good deal of their trade in mushrooms. Regular pickers went out as usual to gather the fungus but the north wind had done the damage before their arrival and until another rain there will be little showing in the district. McNally and Partridge also report that the traveling public has not let up for a minute during the past winter for every night their camp is crowded and even people are being turned away because they have not sufficient accommodations. Tourists arriving from the north declare that the weather has forced them south sooner than they anticipated because of its severity. Those tourists also report that labor conditions in the states of Oregon, Washington and Montana are bad, with a great number of men out of employment and a great number waiting for the opening of the spring season to return to Alaska.

John Allerton and L. Borghesi have just returned from an automobile trip that extended as far as Santa Cruz, Monterey, Castorville and other points along the seacoast. They report the weather to be exceedingly good and roads in fine condition.

Salvador Ortez was married in Sacramento last Monday by Justice of the Peace Frank O'Brien to a young lady of the Capital City whose name has not been exactly ascertained by the Independent but believed to be Long. Salvador has just passed his twenty-third year and is an industrious young man with big hopes for the future. He was born in Washington of respected parents and although he did not exactly receive their consent for his marriage they are now wishing him all kinds of good luck in this major event of his young life.

Mike Judge, watchman on the Southern Pacific bridge for several years past, has been laid up during the past three weeks suffering from a very severe cold, bordering on pneumonia. Yesterday he was able to return to his work greatly improved but still somewhat weak after his experience.

Two Chinese were arrested last Saturday following a raid of the previous night on the Chinese places near the M street bridge. On Friday night three Chinamen were taken up by detectives from the district attorney's office and two on Saturday. They have been accused of gambling, although evidence taken at the time of the raid was believed to be insufficient to secure a conviction. It is possible they may plead guilty when brought to trial in the Woodland justice court and be fined as usual to help out the treasury of Yolo County.

Yesterday, Thursday, January 8, Constable Tug Wilson made his first arrest among the Chinese places near the M street bridge. Accompanied by State Narcotic Enforcement Officer Roy Jones and Deputy Sheriff Ogle of Sacramento County, they entered the building south of the Sacramento Northern Railroad tracks and directly west of the end of the M street bridge. A Chinese in the place was using dice or dominoes and playing with another Chinese in the room. No money was passed between the two, but nevertheless Constable Wilson took up the offender before Judge Barry. He gave his name as Fong Gee and pleaded guilty of gambling, after which Judge Barry fined him $100 to help out the treasury of Yolo County.

Warren Silverlock has once more been placed in charge of the Elkhorn ferry, relieving Joe Firman, who has been in charge of the ferry during the past three or four months. Charles White is the other attendant on the Elkhorn ferry.

Maybe not the meanest thief, but one near that classification, is the man who last night stole a mattress from the bed rented by J. J. McNally at Canteen Auto Camp in Yolo County. McNally's rest was disturbed to such extent that he reported the theft to the Sacramento police this morning.

Vera Bucto, aged 3, of Bryte, was at the Sutter Hospital in Sacramento on Sunday recovering from serious injuries to her left eye, received late Saturday, when a firecracker with which she was playing exploded, according to police reports. The girl was rushed to the city emergency hospital, where the sight of the eye was saved by an operation performed by Dr. E. O. Brown. She was then taken to the Sutter Hospital.

Ralph Montgomery was brought to the Yolo County jail Saturday night, on a warrant issued last September. He is charged with bootlegging. Sheriff J. W. Monroe located Montgomery at Washington. The defendant had skipped out during a raid last summer, according to the sheriff.

Mrs. Bernie Robbins Tuesday entertained a number of friends including members of the R. B. C. Sewing Club at a party at her home. CHRIS KRAUTT DIED AT WOODLAND HOSPITAL THURSDAY

After two years of confinement in a Woodland hospital suffering with the infirmities of old age, Chris Krautt died yesterday, Thursday, January 8, 1925.

During several years the old gentleman had been suffering with a badly injured hip and heel and in addition to that was afflicted with rheumatism.

Krautt had been a resident of Washington about thirty years, where he pursued the vocation of teamster to earn a living, but a few years ago was forced to retire when the auto trucks invaded the fields of work for the teamster.

Krautt was a very industrious man of very quiet demeanor and very unassumed habits. All he desired was to be permitted to pursue the even tenor of his way and when he had gone through a hard day's work in the effort to earn a living all he asked was that he be permitted to have his glass of beer in peace and quietness.

Krautt was an inveterate smoker, always using a pipe and seldom or never using a cigar. His habits in this particular were so well known to the boys around Washington that when he was forced to give up actual labor they saw to it that he always had on hand a plentiful supply of tobacco.

So far as is known in this locality he had no relatives in California, but he had been heard to speak of a sister who is a resident of Colorado or Illinois, but who has never, so far as is known, been in communication with him.

He was a native of Holstein, Germany, but came to the United States at the age of 23 years.

He leaves a small estate, sufficient, it is believed, to give him a decent burial. This consists of money in a Sacramento bank which was placed by Krautt several years ago under the control and handling of August Brietzke purposely for this emergency.

In communication with Brietzke last night, the Independent ascertained that arrangements for his funeral would be made this afternoon by Brietzke in Woodland and that the burial will take place at the county seat.

Otherwise, it is believed that he leaves no other estate.

There are 174,947 one-teacher schools in the United States with 3,500,000 children attending these schools.

CONSTABLE WILSON IS IN CHARGE OF PEACE AFFAIRS NOW

Frank Wilson, familiarly known as "Tug" Wilson among the younger men around Washington and Sacramento, assumed the position of constable in Washington township last Tuesday morning following his nomination by Supervisor Buckingham to the position and his confirmation in the position by the unanimous vote of the members of the board of supervisors of Yolo County.

Wilson was born in Washington. During thirty years he has been a permanent resident in the community. He comes from a good family and his parents are still residents of the town.

Speaking to the Independent yesterday, Constable Wilson said:

"I fully appreciate the honor conferred on me by Supervisor Buckingham, and in responding to the demands made upon me will make every effort to show my appreciation.

"I anticipate no trouble in filling the position of constable, for I believe that I have the confidence and support of all the young men around town, and with the guidance of Supervisor Buckingham I hope to be able to make good insofar as the duties of my office are concerned.

"I have no intention to eat raw meat and bark at everybody that comes around me, but I am certainly not of the impression that the exuberant spirits of youth must be killed with a bludgeon of puritanism or reform.

"I acknowledge that human nature has frailties and that the laws of the United States gives the accused person the benefit of the doubt when placed on trial for crime or infractions of the law.

"I see no reason to force the people of the United States into hypocrisy and double-dealing, but in the matter of enforcing the laws of the land I cannot and I will not hesitate to do my duty at any time and at all times.

"I honestly believe that many people are made criminals by imputation, and I believe that many people are forced into crime in the effort to make them toe the mark of obedience.

"I believe that men and women were endowed by God with a free will and so long as they exercise that free will without breaking any of the man-made laws laid down for our regulation the people should be privileged to exercise that free will without limit.

"With this spirit I have entered the position of constable for Washington township. I invite the people to advise me of their grievances. Insofar as it lays in my power I shall be willing to respond, but I do hope that the people will not expect so much from me in this territory that it would rob me of the opportunity of making a living. The office I fill pays but a small salary, not enough to support a family and, therefore, it is incumbent on me to find other work with which I must earn a living, but I am going to try to find that work within the town so that I may be present or nearby when a call comes for my services."

Wilson is an ex-service man. He is of quiet disposition but determined. His temper is of such nature that he is not easily provoked, but God help the reckless offender who runs across him to annoy him or to worry him.

Wilson is a giant in size and weight and on many occasions before now has given good account of himself when called on to assert himself or to defend himself.

GREZORK OUT OF YOLO HOSPITAL

H. T. Grezork, young Russian, who alleged that he was robbed of $250 in a Bryte rooming house about a month ago and was then kicked into insensibility by seven men, recovered sufficiently to leave the Yolo County Hospital in Woodland yesterday.

Grezork is to confer with Constable Henry Buckingham of Washington in an effort to get a trace of his assailants.

He said yesterday that after he was beaten he jumped through a window while the thugs were in another room plotting to throw his body into the Sacramento River.

HUNTING SEASON WILL CONCLUDE ON THE 15TH

Hunters of ducks, geese, quail and cottontails have but to the fifteenth of January to complete their hunting for the present season. This gives the nimrods but seven days more of shooting.

Cold weather has been the chief complaint of the duck hunters during the last few days. The sportsmen have been forced to break the ice covered surface of the marshes and rice fields and some have experienced cases of near freezing. Shooting has improved a little over what it was some time ago, but most of the nimrods report it to be just fair.

AUTO CAMPS ADD TO POPULATION

Six families moved into the West Sacramento Auto Camp since January 1 and in every family of the six there are several children.

Some of these travelers have purposely moved to this section of Yolo County to give their children the opportunity of attending the Washington public school. Some parents have made no bones about telling their reasons for moving to this district

BUCKINGHAM IN POSITION OF SUPERVISOR SINCE LAST MONDAY

Presenting his credentials at the meeting of the board of supervisors in Woodland last Monday, Henry B. Buckingham was inducted into office after taking the oath administered by County Clerk Saunders and Superior Judge W. A. Anderson.

At the election last November 4, Buckingham was returned to the position of supervisor of the first district of Yolo County by a great majority. After defeating three opponents, he was subjected to another campaign by a write-in candidate but won out without difficulty.

Buckingham is a native of this section of Yolo County. He is thoroughly acquainted with the needs of the district. He knows the necessity of reclamation and he knows the value of the great acreage that is now being protected by levees along the Sacramento River and by levees along the eastern edge of the Yolo basin.

Buckingham is fully aware that the great need of this district is better roads for the farmers so that they may more easily convey their products to the market and so that they may enjoy the privileges of civilization in their farm home life.

It was the knowledge with which he is possessed that prompted the people of the district to return him to office so that they in turn might be benefitted by his experience, his knowledge and his ability as a financier.

Blessed with a very fair disposition and blessed with a knowledge of the needs of the district, the people, all of them, can rely on a fair distribution of the funds of the county to help the locality in which he presides as supervisor.

During the past few years the wealth of the first district of Yolo County has grown enormously. The West Sacramento district has greatly advanced in valuation and in returns from farming products.

The Holland district has made such strides in advancement that a proportionate expenditure of the funds of the county in that district must add considerable to the work of the supervisor.

Combining the two sections—the West Sacramento district and the Holland district—with the district north of Washington and extending as far as Elkhorn, there is an inland empire over which any man might be proud to serve as supervisor.

And the Independent feels that Henry Buckingham will respond to the demands of the occasion doing justice, not only to the center of population in Washington, but even to the people living in the most extreme section of the first district of Yolo County.

ESTATE OF HENRY LEINBERGER IS UNDER PROBATE

Woodland, Jan. 5.—Excepting to recite that the estate exceeds $10,000 in value, the petition for probate of the will of the late Henry Leinberger, retired wholesale butcher, who died at the age of 94 years, does not specify the worth of the real and personal property to be inherited by his daughter, Mrs. Louisa Smith, and his sons, Henry Leinberger, Jr., and Charles Leinberger.

Charles Leinberger filed a petition late Saturday to be named administrator. Attorney H. L. Huston will represent the petitioner.

The real property includes two lots at Washington of the approximate value of $5,000, and a one-half interest in an entire block in the same township of the value of $6,000.

The personal property includes stocks worth $5,000.

Leinberger died December 26. He was the father of the late Supervisor William Leinberger.

BOARD NAMES VIEWERS TO SEE NEW ROAD

Woodland, Jan. 6.—One of Supervisor W. E. M. Beardslee's last official acts before retiring in favor of Henry Buckingham, his conqueror at the polls, yesterday was to have the board appoint viewers for a new road to the first district. Names to look over the proposed road are A. G. Proctor, John Smith, Jr., and J. W. Coons.

HIGHWAY COMMISSION MEETING TO BE HELD ON JANUARY 14TH

The Washington Boosters' Club at its meeting last Tuesday evening in the town hall went over, once more, the details of the meeting to be held January 14 before the state highway commissioners concerning the construction of a stretch of highway through the town of Washington.

The Boosters' Club is extremely anxious that the decision of the highway commission engineers to route the roadway to the M street bridge instead of the Southern Pacific bridge should be changed so that the taxpayers of the town of Washington may be given the benefit of the state highway through the town.

In previous issues of this paper it was explained that the highway commission has granted this hearing in order that the people, the taxpayers, may have the opportunity of explaining their stand in the matter.

Secretary Frank Mixon of the highway commission, an old resident of Yolo County, made the arrangements for the hearing to be held next Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 p. m. It was impressed on him that the people of the town of Washington would not be satisfied unless given the opportunity to voice their feelings.

He consented and arranged with the commissioners that the people of Washington should be heard next Wednesday afternoon.

The hearing will take place on the fifth floor of the Forum Building in Sacramento.

The Boosters' Club has arranged that it will be represented at that meeting by Joesph Pereira.

Other taxpayers of the community are also to be present, among them being the business men so deeply interested in securing the road in its passage through the town.

Ex-supervisor Ed. Palm has expressed himself as being willing to make a talk before the members of the highway commission. Supervisor Henry Buckingham will also be present unless some unforseen accident may prevent him.

Others who have signified a willingness to appear are George Beale, Ed. Moss and M. Doyle.

Secretary Mixon is extremely anxious that the selfish motive of personal aggrandizement may be subdued during the hearing. He is also anxious that there be no disturbance but that the arguments made by the property owners be advanced logically, sincerely and as reasonably as possible. He says that more can be secured in this way than any vain attempt at bull-dozing or threatening the commissioners.

Mixon also says that there is no necessity for a great crowd at the hearing and that any disturbance would surely mitigate against the best interests of the taxpayers of the town of Washington.

Truck museum seeks docents

The Towe Auto Museum is looking for people interested in automobiles and/or automobile history or those who just like to visit with others to become Docents at the museum. Docents are teachers or tour guides who interpret stories for museum guests. The museum is offering its 14th Docent Training Class beginning Thursday, January 14. This 18-week course is a great educational experience as well as an opportunity to get involved in a local community project.

Knowledge of cars isn't required; the Docent class will acquaint you with the museum, the history of the automobile, and the automobile industry. Also you will learn about the colorful entrepreneurs, as well as the effects of the automobile on our lives and times. There will be field trips to other automotive museums as a part of the course taught by the museum staff and a host of other experts.

There is a $75 fee for the class which helps to cover the extensive course materials given out. The applicant will receive a membership to the museum and upon graduation each volunteer is asked to donate two four-hour shifts monthly for a period of two years. Scholarships are available.

The museum contains a fascinating array of cars dating from 1896 into the 1970s. Exhibits are built around "dream themes," such as The Dream of Speed, The Dream of Cool, and The Dream of a Rich Harvest. Being a Docent is a wonderful opportunity to meet interesting people and talk car lore. For further information, call the museum at 442-6802.

Dale Gilliard, who is the manager of the Turner library said, "Thanks in large part to Cathy, we have a wealth of young people's activities here at the library. She is dedicated to the children and is on a first name basis with many of them and their parents. She is always filled with energy and she is a tremendous asset to the library. I have worked in a number of Sacramento branch libraries, and most of them don't have the number and quality of children's reading programs that Cathy has made possible here in West Sacramento."

In her spare time, Cathy likes to travel and, of course, read. She also wanted to pass along the following information:

For those parents interested in having their children attend preschool storytime at the Turner library, it will be held every Tuesday at 11 a.m. and Thursday at 7 p.m., beginning February 2nd and 4th, and continuing through March 23rd and 25th. The program is geared for ages 3-5, but older brothers and sisters are also welcome.

Turner Library will also have a Scholastic Book Fair on the 1st of February, and on February 6th, at 1 p.m., it will be hosting none other than Clifford, the Big Red Dog. For more information on youth reading programs at the library, you can contact Cathy at 375-6465.

ART

zons or (W.A.S.H.) is taken from the French Impressionist painters who went out of the studio to view nature out-of-doors instead of working solely in the studio as had been the tradition of artists in Europe.

A reception will be held on January 9 at 2 p.m. to give the public an opportunity to meet the artists. The show will continue on display through February.

Kiwanis Club spreads Christmas cheer

In the spirit of the Christmas season, the West Sacramento Kiwanis Club continued its 40-year practice of delivering huge food baskets to deserving families in our area. This year, 12 families in West Sacramento benefitted from this project which is led by charter member, Arne Andersen.

Additionally, the club collected several hundred dollars for the Salvation Army, and adopted three single parent families in our area as recipients of toys, clothing, and food gift certificates.

Club president Lillie Bledsoe announced that the club has been invited to hold their weekly Tuesday lunch meetings at the Yolo Club starting in January 1999.

Jim Engstrom on new CommuniCare board

From Robin Cavagnolo
CommuniCare
Health Centers

A new sale of officers assumed the reins of leadership at CommuniCare Health Centers annual meeting in October. CommuniCare now announces Woodland attorney Steve Sabbadini, as president; Davis community activist Cheryl Ozga, as vice president; and West Sacramento CPA Jim Engstrom, as secretary/treasurer of the board of directors. Laura Hogan, CommuniCare's executive director of planning and program development, noted, "There was a conscious decision on the part of the board to appoint leaders closely tied to the primary communities in which our clinics reside." She goes on to state, "Because they live and work in these diverse parts of Yolo County, they have more intimate knowledge of and commitment to the needs and interests of their respective communities. This will enable them to steer our organization toward improved communications and understanding to better serve each constituency."

Executive director of finance and operations, Sherry Cauchois, wholeheartedly agrees. "Now we have a team that will help weave our sites and services into an even more responsive network of care." Ms. Cauchois continues, "Organizations go through different stages of growth and changes. Each stage requires different perspectives and talents. We were extremely fortunate to have Tom Doyle as president of our board during a time of phenomenal growth. I'm not sure anyone else could have led CommuniCare so successfully through expansion from one clinic in Davis to four facilities and two outreach sites in Yolo County in addition to guiding our three-year capital campaign to build the $2 million facility in Davis!"

The Davis Free Clinic was founded 26 years ago by physician John H. Jones to furnish care for those in need. Today, CommuniCare provides medical, dental and eye care, substance abuse treatment, teen services, health education and outreach programs. The four clinics are the Davis Community Clinic, Peterson Clinic in Woodland as well as John H. Hones Community Clinic and Salud Clinic in West Sacramento. CommuniCare also maintains two outreach sites, one in Winters and another in West Sacramento. All programs and services have been developed to serve the health care needs of local low income children and families who lack other resources for care.
